Christian Morgan has completed his new book "Paul's Journey": a thought-provoking examination of the message of Jesus as revealed by the Apostle Paul after his conversion to Christianity. Paul follows ...

Paul's letter to the young church in Rome has dramatically influenced Christians through the ages. It has been described as a 'gateway into heaven'. In his letter Paul gives a complete picture of the gospel - the fullest and grandest in the New Testament. His horizons are vast, taking in time and eternity, the past, present and future of humanity, and the great themes of justification, sanctification and glorification. This is the most personally rooted of John Stott's expositions, for he confesses to have re-encountered Paul's letter constantly throughout his Christian life. At the same time, her interacts with other commentators, some of whom are challenging interpretations that are time-honoured and traditional. He sees Romans as a Christian manifesto for our increasingly unstable world, emphasising the good news of freedom through Jesus Christ. Paul's vision of this freedom is astonishing. It overcomes ethnic conflict, the darkness of moral guilt, condemnation from God and alienation from others. It is a freedom to serve God and our neighbours in love.

Paul was the most influential figure in the early Christian church. In this epistle, written to the founders of the church in Rome, he sets out some of his ideas on the importance of faith in overcoming mankind's innate sinfulness and in obtaining redemption. With an introduction by Ruth Rendell

Have you ever read Paul's letter to the Romans and noticed the following terms: power of God, kindness of God, ministry of God, gospel of God, Son of God, Spirit of God, righteousness of God, wrath of God, judgment of God, beloved of God? Those terms and many more are right in the Scripture and most of the time we gloss over them looking for the theme of the passage we are reading. Those terms are the themes of the Roman letter and as they are presented, they are discussed. Once you study Romans with these terms as the themes, the true message and intent of God comes to life in your heart and soul. This commentary can be used for personal or group Bible studies.
